Chamberlain V. Pres. of State Secretaries

Miss Juanita Chamberlain was elected second vice-president of the Texas State School Secretaries Association by acclamation at Dallas, November 26, 1938.

Miss Chamberlain, who represented Longview high school at the convention, was elected by acclamation after an address on "Telephone Technique." This is her first year in the association which holds a conference every year.

The convention was begun with registration and conferences. After this conference they were free for the day to do anything they desired. At 11 o'clock a dance was held in the Adolphus Hotel.

Civic Music Association Presents Margaret Speaks, Soprano

Critics have been quick to report the winning appeal of Miss Speaks' personality as well as the appeal of her voice. She has won universal acclaim and unstinted praise from two continents on her soprano voice.

Oley Speaks, the noted composer of such beloved songs as "Sylvia" and "On the Road to Mandalay," is Miss Speaks' uncle.

Many Longview high school students attended this outstanding concert.

PLANS MADE FOR DRAMATIC CLUB PRODUCTION

"I think it is the most appropriate play for high school pupils I have ever run into" declared Miss Ethel Kaderli as she discussed plans for the Dramatic club production, "Early to Bed and Early to Rise," to be presented December 16.

Here is an all-American family in a batty and charming play, "Early to Bed and Early to Rise." Dad is forever inventing contraptions like an unbreakable egg crate or a keyless lock that won't work. The kid brother hates to study, but loves automobiles while that cute little trick from across the alley is all for steering him into marriage. Marion, the older sister, is trying to make a success of her job, and is hopelessly in love with her boss. Aunt Abbie is frantic, trying to be a cook, mother, and general house cleaner-upper for the whole tribe; and last, but not nobody dares to say least, is the younger sister, Patsy, who is crazy about pets and has a staunch friendship with the owner of a pet shop. Life becomes very complicated for the group when Patsy holds the ticket for a model house being raffled off, only to find that her pet parrot has eaten the ticket. But the parrot hasn't eaten the ticket; and before Patsy can move her family, Marion encounters competition for the affection of her boss in the form of a girl with a Southern accent and the old pet shop owner is about to lose his shop because he can't pay the rent. It's pucky Patsy who—but wait, that's the climax and it wouldn't be fair to tell you the whole story. You'll just have to come see the finish; it's plenty thrilling.

Eight Delegates Attend Convention Today

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS MEETING HELD IN LONGVIEW

One of the most outstanding school events of this year was the Future Homemakers Meeting of Area Seven which was held in Longview last Saturday.

Area Seven is composed of twenty-one Texas counties. Cities from all of the twenty-one counties were represented.

Registration began at 9:30, and the meeting was called to order at 10 by Miss Kathleen McWhirten, who is state president for Future Homemakers. Invocation was rendered by the Reverend C. L. Porter of Longview. This was followed by a short concert which was presented by the Longview band. The band played "Cyrene Overture" by Fulton and "Coliseum Overture" by DeLamater.

H. L. Foster made a short talk, greeting the visitors. Maxine Leshe, president of the Longview chapter, also gave a short speech of welcome. This speech of welcome was responded to by Mary Jane Hill of the Commerce chapter.

The roll call with one representative from each chapter telling of the outstanding achievements and goals of their chapter followed. The visitors were then introduced.

Everyone then joined in a short sing-song which was led by Miss Phyllis Brannon.

Future Homemaker's plans for the state rally were discussed by Mrs. Estelle Hays Wallace who is area supervisor of Homemaking.

Sectional meetings were held from 11:15 until 11:45.

The mass meeting in the afternoon was opened by another sing-song led by Miss Brannon. This was followed by a business meeting in which officers for the area were elected.

A brief program by the Longview chapter followed the business meeting. Grant Donaldson, Eunice Parker, and Bobby Daniels played a trumpet trio. Floyd Rumbaugh and Billie Sue Ayres discussed their experiences at camp. Miss Phyllis Brannon sang "Moon Behind the Cottonwood" by Cadman.

Miss Kathleen McWhirten discussed the Ruth Huey Camp Fund. Camp responsibilities were discussed by Miss Oreta Nelson, student from Hughes Springs, and Miss Marion Simmons, student of Jefferson.

The visitors then enjoyed a tour of Longview and a tea given at the home of Mrs. Tom Harris on Covington Drive.

Outstanding out-of-town teachers of Homemaking who were visitors for the day were Miss Martha Graves from Commerce, Miss Mary Kirky from Greenville, Miss Era Parker from Texarkana, Miss Earnestine Erskine from Arp, Miss Pauline Muddock from Hooks, Miss Dorothy Bunt from Lindale, Miss Margaret Rieves from Marshall, and Miss Gladys Yarbrough from Tyler.

Thespians Initiated In Assembly

Thespian Club initiation was the point of interest in the assembly December 7.

The program opened with the singing of "The Romaika," "The First Primrose," and "That Dear Old Tune" by the high school Choral Club.

The Thespian Club then held its annual initiation for new members. This was the first year that the club has used the National Thespian Book of instructions.

The new members took the pledge and were then declared members of the National Thespian Honor Dramatic Society. Miss Ethel Kaderli, Dramatic Club sponsor, administered the pledge to the following students: Bette Jeanne Thompson, Jane Wood, Coleen Grant, Billy Bob Terrell, Mary Elizabeth Hill, Helen Hall, Tommy Anderson, Delfred Few, Lon Livsey, and Sue Jeanne Daly.

That they might report the progress they have made in yearbook and newspaper work this year and gain information concerning how to do better work in this field, eight delegates left Longview yesterday afternoon to attend the annual convention of the Texas High School Press Association being held in Denton today and tomorrow.

Four of the delegates will represent the annual staff and four will represent the newspaper staff. Miss Julia Hyman, sponsor of the annual, chaperoned the group. All delegates will be guests of the Texas State College for Women during their stay in Denton.

The Texas High School Press Association is the largest state high school press association in the United States. It was founded in 1923 at Mary Hardin-Baylor College. In 1936, Texas State College for Women undertook the sponsorship of the organization; and F. L. McDonald, director of the journalism department in T. S. C. W., was named sponsor.

Those attending the convention will be privileged to hear such important personages as Lynn Landrum, editorialist for the Dallas Morning News and Cecil Horne, director of the department of Journalism in Texas Tech, Lubbock. Many forms of entertainment will be provided.

Those representing the Longview Senior High School are: Helen Hall, James Chamberlain, Coleen Grant, Carolyn Booth, and Maxine Leche from the newspaper staff, and from the annual staff, Patsy Lacy, Helen June Huff, Bobbie Slade, and Jane

TO THOSE WHO HELP

In publishing "The Lobo" the staff endeavors to present to the students and teachers of Longview High School not only news and interesting stories about the school life, but also to give them, through the aid of advertisements, information about necessary supplies for school, clothes, books, and other services.

Without the aid of the advertisers, it would have been much more difficult to publish the school paper. However, the staff does not believe in taking ads from merchants unless they feel that the advertisers are getting fair returns from their investments.

For this reason, the faculty and students of the high school should, whenever possible without loss of money, make purchases from the stores that have supported their school paper.

Christmas is here. Students help the merchants who have helped your school paper!

Know Your Seniors

"Oh, I forgot my music!"

Yes, it's Barbara Nelson, clarinet player for the Lobo band, who has never been known to have all of her music at the right time.

Barbara's favorite hobby is skating, and she haunts the skating rink for miles around. Her other hobbies are going to Kilgore and wearing her brothers' shirts. Arguing with her brother Dick over the car occupies most of her time.

Unlike most students, Barbara likes school and is very sorry that this is her last year. Her favorite subject is typing.

That loud mouth from Oklanoma is none other than W. J. Rushing, better known as Bod.

Bod spends most of his time playing baseball when he isn't dozing at neat. Although he pays very little attention to any of the girls, he seems to have a way with all of them. Could it be that he is timid? Eh, Pat?

When asked what he intended to do when he was graduated from high school, Bod stated, "I doubt if I even get out."

Billie Kathrine Ferguson has confessed to being a true animal lover. She possesses two large Persian cats and a German police dog. The cats names are "Kity-Wam-Pah" and "Dammit." The dog's name is "Monk."

Her favorite pastime is dancing, and she admits that she would rather dance with a certain tall, dark, and handsome lad from Kilgore College than with anyone else. She also enjoys horseback riding.

Billie states emphatically that her pet hate is "snoopee" people.

"I prefer football as a spectator, but I would rather play baseball," stated Charles Lee Moore when asked about his favorite sport. He considers baseball his hobby.

Charles Lee was born in Longview in 1921 and has lived here ever since. He plans to attend Kilgore College after he is graduated from high school, but has made no plans after that.

A likely candidate for the school's dizziest coed is Patricia Witt, who came to Longview from Terrell, Texas, last year at mid-term.

Patti, as she is better known, collects stamps for a hobby. She has been collecting them for a long time and has quite a collection. Her other favorite pastimes are skating and dancing. She is a talented tap-dancer and plans to study to improve this talent. She states that she prefers men instructors. Either Baylor or T. C. U. will be the fortunate college.

Chamberlain Plans To Organize Club

Miss Juanita Chamberlain, Second-Vice President of Texas School Secretaries Association, is making plans to organize a district organization of school secretaries.

The schools nearby, such as Gladewater, Sabine, Pine Tree, Union, White Oak, Kilgore, Tyler, Marsden, Springhill, and Gilmer, all have from one to three secretaries whom Miss Chamberlain desires to join this organization.

The district association will be a branch of the state association. Its aims will be to promote better relations between the different school secretaries.

Several letters have been written to these secretaries requesting their opinions on organizing this association. Return letters have brought enthusiastic replies, stating desires for such an organization.

If the association is formed, the meeting of organization will be held in Longview sometime in the near future.

Dr. Stevens Talks On Teeth to P. E. Girls

Dr. W. O. Stevens, Gregg County health Dentist, entertained the girls physical education classes by a discussion concerning the growth, care, diseases, and action of the tooth, Friday, November 8.

He was applauded enthusiastically by the girls as he walked into the class. He brought molds of the kinds of teeth and pointed out the formations of the tooth.

He closed his discussion by letting the students ask questions concerning the teeth.

Mrs. Graves Completes Talks On "Parent Education"

Mrs. Blossom Graves of Gladewater has completed her series of lessons on "Parent Education," which were held for the benefit of parents who have children in Longview High School. The last of the series was given Tuesday afternoon, November 29.

Mrs. Graves stated that the lessons were a "big success" and had accomplished their purpose. Sixty-seven mothers were enrolled in the class and attended most of the eight meetings.

Mrs. Graves is director of family living in Gregg County and was brought to Longview under the sponsorship of the Woman's City Council. At the close of the meetings in Longview, Mrs. Graves went to Danville where she began a series of similar meetings.

Campus Cat

I hope you've got your specks handy, because it takes good eyes and you have to be sorta cracked to enjoy this poor (hen-pecked) column. It's a secret, but did you know that Silas Winkler is a very polite nice boy? Well, he is. Not so very long ago he bumped into the pencil sharpener and promptly turned around and said, "Pardon me."

We believe Shirley Burdine has been influenced by movies or some such trifle thing, by the way she goes around saying, "Good noon."

Not so very long ago Helen Johnson invited some kids in to make some taffy, in swaggery Bobby, Helen's loving brother, and sat down on a deluxe buttered table top.

In a few minutes he was up and such language for such an innocent looking boy as Bobby. "Ask, ask. (The candy didn't get hard, anyway)."

It seems that William Lee Knox has lock jaw. Every time you see him he's grinning like a cheshire.

Here are a couple of triangles you might be interested in: Mary Lillian Williams, Carl Calk, Jr., and Billy Pouncey; Elizabeth Ann McHaney, Fred Cobb, and Richard Henderson.

The boys of L. H. S. are either too bashful or they just don't give a ——— for beautiful girls.

Which reminds us Robert Peterson isn't so bashful as he used to be.

Didja know: Roy White has fallen for a certain senior?

Wayne's break with the Kilgore boy friend is not a secret any more.

Jimmy Layton sings "Out in the cold again" these days.

Billy Bob has three-fourths of the pep squad all a flutter.

Betty Lou is going to be missed by a certain shoe salesman.

Faye receives daily mail from Wayne.

A lot of people are looking forward to the post office.

Ah, ha, we heard that: Perry Connally was "off'n the girls."

Mary Lou Harris still hopes for a date with Jimmy.

Isabelle James' heart goes "bump" when Bert Esly winks at her.

Sarah Grace is boy-crazy now that she is senior high. These Sophs!

Marion S. is not so dumb as he looks.

Through the key-hole: Ruth A. likes blonds. Is it still B. S.? Who? Billy Smith.

Eunice has a pocket full of dreams. Maurice Brown is seen to blush for the 'n'th time.

Who said "Gogie" couldn't wiggle a baton?

The column scanned the school to see what we could and could not do without.

What we can do without: chemistry, Burney Swinney's wisecracks, Floyd Rumbaugh's streamlined pipe, necking, These Beans around here. (Let's hope some one catches it.) "Busted" muffers, jitterbugs, and reporters.

Things we can't do without: The Band, pep squad, Mr. York, French, between bell conversations, 10 per cent slips, the popcicle man, Fiat Foot Floogie, and Summer Souvenirs.

All the comforts of home—That's dear ole L.H.S. That is, if you're the Knottie Bivins type you can easily mistake library chairs and tables for beds.

You gotta be a football hero to get along with D. J.

Well, look here! That hard to get guy (that follow me, chickens) Jack Bolt has been hooked.

L.H.S. at a glance: Weldon Hatten and his hat . . . Sue Jeanne and her smiles . . . Alice Moore's books . . . Edith Pittenger and her giggles. Morris Newham's sleepy eyes . . . Charles Burandt and his dimple . . . Tom Landers' foul jokes . . . Mary Elinor Jensen's A's.

Jack Smaha's car isn't any model. It's a bad example.

Flattery is soft soap—soft soap contains a lot of lye. Put two and two together.

Dula, if you ever get caught in hot water again, be more nonchalant; take a bath.

What two meek people got cold feet at noon Thursday (Dec. 2) and wouldn't play hookey as they had planned?

TAYLOR, (TSP) — Youngest band member on record at Taylor High School is ten-year-old George Nelson, who has been playing cornet for three years. A little over four feet tall, George is too small to qualify for a uniform, but the band boys say that his size does not keep him from making a mighty blast in the brass section.

PORT ARTHUR, (TSP) — Thomas Jefferson students have tried a new angle on collecting autographs, now being the proud possessors of a piano autographed by Lily Pons. The petite soprano laughingly responded to the unusual request and inscribed her name on the new piano when she gave a concert in South Texas last fall.

FORT WORTH, (TSP)— Pajamas may have superceded night gowns in this modern age, but two twentieth century girls in a home-making class in Arlington Heights High School, Fort Worth, refused to be influenced by this trend. They are making out-fashioned night gowns.

BIG SPRING, (TSP)—Training for Big Spring students who are of driving age and who are planning to secure driver's licenses was provided by high school authorities recently. During study hall period, Jack Douglass, vice president of the Texas division of AAA, gives actual practice and numerous street tests to those who will apply for licenses.

DALLAS, (TSP) — "Following in mother's footsteps" might be the phrase most appropriate for Mimi Martin, culinary expert from Highland Park High. Mimi won first prize for rolls, second prize for bread, and third prize for biscuits in the "Girls School Division" of the Texas State Fair cooking competition.

Mimi, who has been winning prizes with her cooking since she was six, says she is only doing as her mother and grandmother did.

FORT WORTH, (TSP) — Nothing short of daily publication will satisfy four journalism students at Arlington Heights High School, Fort Worth. A "daily newspaper" posted on a bulletin board in front of the school office is their term project.

School, local, and foreign news, editorial, and cartoons make up the board, edited by four reporters on the Jacket Journal weekly.

ALVIN, (TSP)—Fashions for high school co-eds receive attention in a column devoted to telling what the best dressed girl on the Alvin High School campus are wearing.

Descriptions of outstandingly attractive models are given, with attention called to the time and place of the wearing.

Mrs. Meadows Reviews "Hearts Up"

Did you wonder why some of the students wore red hearts Monday, November 21? These hearts were obtained in the fourth period Bible Class when Mrs. Curtis Meadows made a book review on "Hearts Up."

As each student entered the classroom, he was given a red paper heart with the words "Hearts up to you" written on it.

Mrs. Meadows, a graduate of Rice Institute, was introduced by Mrs. C. L. York.

High up and low down. That's the perfect description for J. D. and Jessie Bivins.

The mistletoe may not show but Malcolm is still holding it over Billie Kathryn's head. Don't be envious Bill.

Jakie gives the "Cat" nothing to write about.

Those crutches don't raise Bubba up one bit.

LOBOS SCORE 165, OPPONENTS 131; BUT LOSERS

By rolling up 165 points to 131 for the opposition and losing three games and tying two, Longview's Lobos ended their most disastrous football season in recent years Thursday, Nov. 24.

With only one member of the regular 1937 squad in the line-up the Lobos opened the season with a not too impressive 20-6 victory over the Woodrow Wilson Wildcats of Dallas.

The next week the Lobos traveled to Dallas and played Dallas Tech in the Cotton Bowl. It took them until the last 50 seconds to push over a touchdown that gave them a 14-7 victory over the heavier Wolves.

Port Arthur's strong Yellow Jackets came to town the next week, and the Lobos ended with a 13-13 tie, the only mark on the Lobos' record in eighteen tries.

Once again the Lobos traveled to Dallas to take on the Highland Park Scots. The Scots stopped everything the Lobos had and scored an impressive victory over the locals. This was the first game the Lobos had dropped in nineteen tries.

On October 14, the Lobos began the defense of their district crown in a free scoring duel with the Athens Hornets; and when the final gun sounded, the Lobos were ahead 39-20.

A scoreless tie was the result of the next game as the Texarkana Tigers invaded Longview and upset the dope bucket to tie Coach Shotwell's crew.

The Lobos showed their old form in downing the Kilgore Bulldogs the next week by an overwhelming 48-7 score.

After a week's rest, the Lobos invaded Tyler for the Armistice Day classic against the undefeated, untied Lions. Tyler displayed all their power and sent the Lobos home on the short end of 20-0 score.

In a cold wind-swept field the Lobos downed the Marshall Mavericks 19-6 the next week.

Thanksgiving Day the Lobos wound up the 1938 grid season by dropping a 26-6 decision to the Gladewater Bears who went into the game as underdogs.

Strange Noises Heard In Typing Classes

"Went a peck, peck, pecking all around," is a phrase from a popular song, but it also describes a noise heard in the right wing of the school during typing classes.

Many are the eager faces that pass through the door in hopes of passing a test, but just as many come out with sour and disgusted looks only to admit that not one test was passed.

Students who have never taken this interesting subject would think the teacher must be working "the poor dears," but they might also be interested to know that it is nothing unusual at all to pass four or five tests in one period.

Perhaps you have noticed the brilliant smiles on the faces of Marie Faircloth, Alice Turner, Hazel McCann, Carolyn Booth, Bennie Francis Williams, and Patsy Lacy, Iola Mae Rogellio, and Allyne Faries. They have no worries because they have a gold star by their names on the score chart which means that they have already passed sixty tests.

Hardy Miller Makes Ali District Team

Captain Hardy Miller was the only Lobo to make the all district team, although Don Fambrough and William Lee Knox were placed on the second team.

Miller's kicking proved to be his most valuable asset, but he was also a good runner and passer, as well as a good defensive man.

Forrest Lee of Gladewater, Waldon Roberts of Tyler, and Pennell of Athens round out the backfield. Scott of Tyler and Scott of Athens, both pass snagging ends, gained these positions.

Mumford of Tyler was placed at the pivot position.

At the tackle positions were Temple of Tyler and Daniels of Gladewater and Roberts of Tyler.

Tyler placed five men on the team and Gladewater placed three. Lee and Scott of Tyler were unanimous choices.

Fambrough and Knox were right behind the leaders and just missed the first team.

Bruce Gaw, Buddy Akin, Jim Lewis Carter, and Hubert Skidmore received mention.

He: May I hold your palmolive? She: Not on your lifebuoy. He: I guess I'm all out of lux. She: Yes Ivory formed.

Louise Davis reports she found Louisville, but she couldn't find Kentucky.

Tyler Overpowers Lufkin, 18-6

On a rain soaked field before a crowd of 12,000 people, the Tyler Lions, the representative of district nine, overpowered the Lufkin Panthers and advanced to the quarter-finals last Friday, December 2.

The Panthers scored in the first minutes of play and held a 6-0 lead at the half.

The Lions seemed to find new strength, and they pushed over three touchdowns in the last period.

When the game ended, Tyler was ahead 18-6.

Lobos Lose To Gladewater, 26-6

Lonview Lobos ended their 1938 football season by taking a 26-6 licking from the avenging Gladewater Bears, Thanksgiving Day, November 24.

The Lobos scored first when they gained possession of the ball deep in Gladewater territory following a bad punt.

Gladewater quickly evened the count in the second period when Lee carried it over. At the half the count was tied 6-6.

The determined Bears came back in the second half; and later in the third quarter, they scored again. The conversion was good, and the Bears led 13-6.

In the last quarter, the Bears cinched victory with drives that netted two touchdowns. When the final gun sounded, the Lobos trailed 26-6.

Outstanding for the Bears were Lee and Jones on offense and Baldwin on defense.

Hardy Miller's great kicking pulled the Lobos out of several holes while Skidmore, Ford, Carter, Sapp, Akin, Fambrough, and Knox also played good games.

Secretary Is "Flunky," Says Miss Chamberlain

"There is no use in trying to name the different things a school secretary does because when anything needs to be done, we do it," so states Miss Chamberlain secretary of Longview High School.

"The job of a school secretary is most interesting and grand fun: Of course, it is hard work, long hours at times and an attempt at being and doing two things at once. At times orders and requests are hurled from every angle, and I have to catalog these things in my mind in an orderly manner," Miss Chamberlain also remarked.

Some of the things Miss Chamberlain has to do are making various and sundry official school reports to the state office in Austin. She tries to answer all questions from the different students and teachers of Longview High. All telephone calls made for Mr. Speight and Mr. Foster as well as the rest of the faculty and student body are first answered by Miss Chamberlain. She does all the mimeograph work for the school.

Miss Chamberlain also remarked that she is really Mr. Foster's secretary so she takes dictation and helps him whenever possible. The student credits are also kept by her. She is sometimes the nurse and doctor for cuts, bruises, fainting spells, and the like.

Miss Chamberlain is assisted in her work by Misses Dula Williamson and Loraine Miller.

Boos And Hisses Greet Pictures Taken For Annual

What a commotion! The seniors pictures were given out November 29, and everyone in unison declared the pictures were no good.

Remarks went something like this: "Is this me? Who'd have guessed it! It's an insult!"

Jimmy Layton looked at his and then exclaimed, "Look at me!"

Some of the girls when asked by the boys to see their pictures pretended to be bashful. They'd hang their heads and say, "Really, it's no good; I hate to show you." Then, after all the nonsense, they would show them.

If the pictures weren't going to be done over, it wouldn't be a surprise to everybody leaving school when the annuals are given out. Everyone is hoping for the best when the next pictures are taken.

Hardy Miller Makes Ali District Team

Captain Hardy Miller was the only Lobo to make the all district team, although Don Fambrough and William Lee Knox were placed on the second team.

Miller's kicking proved to be his most valuable asset, but he was also a good runner and passer, as well as a good defensive man.

Forrest Lee of Gladewater, Waldon Roberts of Tyler, and Pennell of Athens round out the backfield. Scott of Tyler and Scott of Athens, both pass snagging ends, gained these positions.

Mumford of Tyler was placed at the pivot position.

At the tackle positions were Temple of Tyler and Daniels of Gladewater and Roberts of Tyler.

Tyler placed five men on the team and Gladewater placed three. Lee and Scott of Tyler were unanimous choices.

Fambrough and Knox were right behind the leaders and just missed the first team.

Bruce Gaw, Buddy Akin, Jim Lewis Carter, and Hubert Skidmore received mention.

He: May I hold your palmolive? She: Not on your lifebuoy. He: I guess I'm all out of lux. She: Yes Ivory formed.

Louise Davis reports she found Louisville, but she couldn't find Kentucky.

BICYCLES REVEAL TRADE OF HIGH SCHOOLITES

Looking about the campus on the west side, one may notice bicycles carrying bags with names on them.

Some of the bags have Longview News and Journal; others, "Everybody's reading the Times"; and still others carry Dallas News and Journal.

Now let's see whom these different bags belong to. Coming out the door at the end of the sixth period are Charles and Bubba Dews, Robert Peterson, Marion Sittou, J. G. Hurst, and A. B. Cox bound for the Longview News and Journal. Melesio Equihua hurries out and rides off on a blue and white bicycle to carry the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and Shreveport Times.

An hour passes, and we see James Chamberlain, Conway Hackney, and Earl Clark also bound for the News and Journal office.

It is a cold day, and Joe and Horace Littlejohn and Weldon Hatten are glad that they will not carry papers until the next morning. They carry Dallas News and Fort Worth Star-Telegram respectively.

Charles Sutton and Rayburn Temple hurry to get to the A. and P. Grocery Store before 4 o'clock. Tom Landers starts for the Rembert theatre where he will work until the show closes. Tommy Kuykendall and Charles Reese work in the Fairway Grocery on Saturday and after school.

With The Clubs

Members of the Sportsman Club elected new officers Monday, November 21.

Those who will take office at mid-term are Bruce Gaw, president; Herbert Skidmore, vice-president; William Goodson, secretary.

A picnic has been planned at which time the "dogs" will be given the final initiation. The club has decided to start a move to abolish boating in assemblies, at athletic events, and at other school activities. They hope to carry this move to Junior high and the ward schools.

Under the direction of Miss Phyllis Brannon, the Choral Club has accomplished much in two years, and during the coming year much more is expected of it.

The club not only plays and rehearses for future programs, but it also studies a book during the class period set aside for its use. The book, "Helpful Hints to Singers," by Stella Owsley, aids the students a great deal. Notes are taken, and after a period of time a test is given. This work and the pupil's conduct determine the grade given.

The club plans to give an assembly program soon. Among the numbers they have lately learned to sing is Franz Schubert's "Omnipotence." Other numbers include "The Romaika," "Dear Old Tune," "The First Primrose," "Break Thou the Bread of Life," and "When Jesus Was a Little Child."

Annie Frances Bistline assists Miss Brannon at the piano.

Miss Alice Per Lee is offering to members of the Library Club a regular training course for student librarians. The purpose of the course is to train students to help in the library next year.

Miss Per Lee is teaching Bennett's "Student Library Assistant." Students keep notebooks as texts.

To further an interest in Latin, the Latin Club presented a unique program in the assembly, Wednesday, November 23.

Mary Owen Johnson acted as Mistress of Ceremonies. The Moyer twins, Miriam and Marion, opened the program singing the "Indian Love Call." They were accompanied by Ann King at the piano.

William Avery and Gladys Mack gave a violin duet of "Now It Can Be Told" accompanied at the piano by Annie Frances Bistline.

A skit, "Thanksgiving for Latin" concluded the program. Those acting in the play were William Goodson, Billie Huie, Eugene Bistline, Franklin Martin, Miriam Moyer, Ardelle Barlow, Jane Jo Medley, Dudley Meadows, William Avery, Gladys Mack, and F. A. Scott.

No Cooperation Says Mildred Terry

"We've had some nice sales this year, but I think students should cooperate a little bit more," declared Mildred Terry as she sat in the gym.

Mildred devotes her noon hour in selling candy for the Girls' Lobo club. "The words 'credit' and 'on the cuff' are not in my dictionary," she cautions.

The largest sale of the season was the first day of cold weather when she sold $5 worth of candy.

Acting as vice-president of the young peoples organization and being the only young person on a committee at her church, she is there every time the door is open.

She was sent as a delegate from her church to two conventions, one at Fort Arthur and the other at Wichita Falls. To be a foreign missionary in the field of doctoring is her ambition, and she will study at T.C.U. She admitted that she also wants to get a look at David O'Brien while she is there.

She lettered in basket ball last year and is coming out again this year. She is Miss Bertha Treadaway's right hand man and has the nobby or being chief flunky for all the teachers.

Region Bands To Meet Here March 11, 12

That bright colored mass which has appeared in front of the grand stand so much this year is none other than the band of Longview High.

The band so far has won two trophies. Many more are expected to adorn the trophy case. On March 11 and 12 a contest of all the bands in region four are to meet here. It is estimated that approximately thirty bands will compete in this contest in which Longview will take an active part. The Junior High, Campus Ward, and First Ward pupils will combine to form a Junior Band which will consist of one hundred pieces. The Junior Band will also enter in the contest. Several soloists are to compete for awards.

The band favored the Future Homemakers of Texas, December 3, with a concert.

The Band Hall has been equipped with an extension of K. F. R. O. In the future all broadcasts will be given directly from the Hall.

Hollering And Chunking Trouble Bus Drivers

"Scuffling, hollering, and chunking are the most common troubles of driving a school bus," agreed Mr. Howard Perkins, driver of the Danville school bus, Mr. Alton Ingram, driver of the Spring Hill bus, and Mrs. F. M. Adams, driver of the Elderville school bus.

When the weather is good, these drivers start their busses some time between 7:25 and 7:10 and arrive at the school about 8 o'clock. They get home around 5 o'clock.

To Hardy—With Love; From Susie

When Joe empties the waste-baskets, many things are revealed, including pieces of notes that shouldn't have been written. One was put to-get-er, and the fragments of a booming romance were disclosed.

Dearest Hardy: I just couldn't pass up the opportunity of writing to the outstanding candidate in the Wheaties Football roll—it's just simply thrilling to see you out on the football field, running, kicking and passing. No wonder you're the outstanding man on the team.

Your broadcast the other night was too, too divine—you sounded so heroic and so manly, oh joy! Ah ecstasy—thrill, thrill.

I want you to know you are my ideal boy, not talkative about yourself, so modest, and such a gentleman. And they also say inclined to be a shade romantic! This is just a note to let you know I'm highly in favor of your winning, and I eat my "Wheaties" so I can vote for you.

For the present, my darling, Good-bye,

Love,
SUSIE GLUTZ.

P. S. My brother's name is Jimmy Layton.

A check up of love affairs:
Off and on—Lee and Evelyn; Pauline and Howard.
Indefinite—Gogie and Charles.

"Hard Work, Study Necessary To Reach Top," Says Miss Speaks

"All types of music have a place in the world," stated Miss Margaret Speaks, well known soprano of stage and radio, after her concert at the Longview Junior High School Auditorium, Tuesday evening, December 6.

Attractively gowned in ivory moire taffeta, Miss Speaks presented a beautiful picture as she graciously answered the questions of her many admirers in Longview and gave her autograph. She said that she did not believe that she had ever sung before a more appreciative audience.

Miss Speaks admitted that she reached the top only after much hard work and study. Having started studying voice when she was sixteen, she has kept studying and is now taking piano lessons along with her voice lessons.

Her home is in New York City where she spends much of her time with her husband when not on tour. She enjoys walking, ping pong, and badminton.

When asked whether she had ever been called Maggie, Miss Speaks laughingly answered, "Oh, if I only had a penny for each time!" She admitted that she enjoys swing music although it does not come in her field of music.

Miss Speaks was presented by the Civic Music Association of Longview.

Informal Dance Given By Annual

To make more money for the annual, the annual staff gave an informal dance in the gymnasium Friday night, December 2.

A nickelodian provided music for the dance, which was the first of the two school dances allowed the students this year. The Junior-Senior Prom in May will be the other one.

A large crowd attended, although the weather was bad. Members of the Girl's Lobo Club sold candy and drinks. In the latter part of the evening the annual staff sold sandwiches.

Chaperones were Miss Julia Hyman, Miss Jane Etheridge, Miss Violet McLaurin, Miss Daisy Leah Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Shotwell, Mr. W. K. Wilson, and Mr. R. L. Speight.
